

William Lamont turned his head from photographers yesterday as he was led to court by detectives Bill Bankert (center) and Jim Serna.

Murder suspect in court 'Skip preliminary' Lamont asks

PLEASANTON — William Charles Lamont, charged with murdering his estranged wife last Wednesday in her Livermore apartment, asked municipal court judge William Gale to skip a preliminary hearing and turn the matter directly to Alameda County Superior Court.

Lamont, 49, appeared briefly for arraignment in Pleasanton before Judge Gale yesterday as funeral services were being held in Livermore for his estranged wife, 36-year-old Helen Ferrell Lamont.

He is accused of killing her with a blast to the head from a shotgun.

Lamont also asked for a court appointed attorney, and was advised he would be given an interview with the county public defender's office.

Under California criminal procedures, the defense may request waiving a preliminary hearing in which a judge decides if enough evidence is shown to warrant trial on the charges.

Lamont's as yet unappointed attorney would have to agree with the request along with the district attorney's office.

The request is sometimes made to "speed up the proceedings," according to a local attorney.

Lamont's estranged wife was found by her two children shot to death in the bedroom of their 5222 Norma Way duplex less than two miles from her job at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory.

She had worked at the Lab since March, 1972, and currently was employed as a secretary in "L" division, nuclear testing.

William Lamont was arrested early Friday morning 30 miles east of Winnemucca, Nev., after his car was spotted leaving town.

A freak check by local police identified the unemployed former salesman as wanted for questioning in the murder of his wife. He was arrested by the Nevada Highway Patrol for drunk driving and possession of a loaded weapon — reportedly a 12-gauge shotgun.

By Thursday afternoon, when Livermore police detectives Bill Bankert and Jim Serna arrived in the northern Nevada town, deputy district attorney Harry Murphy had signed the formal complaint and municipal court judge John A. Lewis had issued a no-bail warrant.

Bankert and Serna spent nearly eight hours driving the suspect back to Livermore Friday. He was booked at the city jail Friday night and transferred to the county's Oakland courthouse facility Saturday morning.

Police would only say that no confession had been given. Still formally under the custody of the Livermore police, Bankert and Serna delivered Lamont to Judge Gale shortly before 2 p.m. yesterday.

At the end of the proceedings, after Judge Gale had read the charges and set bail at $150,000, he was remanded to sheriff's deputies.

Lamont will be at the Oakland courthouse maximum security facility until his 1:30 p.m., Thursday, appearance to enter a plea before Judge Gale.

Getting personal with faceless form

"Please note, this application may be beneficial to your district's health and well-being!"

Fortunately for Bev Lester, administrative secretary for personnel services with the Amador-Pleasanton school district, few of the thousands of applications for teaching jobs she processes each year are that rambunctious.

Though dealing with so many applications, some of whom reveal via the language above the need for a respected job, Bev Lester manages to convey personal concern for these faceless people who come to her desk in the form of applications and letters.

An indication of the job is the number of applications for teaching positions.

It has averaged about 1,000 the last couple years. That includes both Amador and Pleasanton. Out of the files with the approximately 2,000 forms, 11 have been hired for the 1973-76 school year.

Just five have been hired at the elementary level, three in the high schools and three for the Regional Occupational Program.

The applicants are a mixture of first-time teaching job seekers and experienced classroom instructors.

About 90 per cent of the job seekers come from within the state. Mrs. Lester says that many of this number are college grads of Chico State, Cal Berkeley, San Jose State, Cal State Hayward, San Francisco State, Santa Clara and St. Mary's.

Though many have sent out a stack of job inquiries, off-times 20 or 30 or more, one of the favored areas appears to be Pleasanton-Amador.

But processing and maintaining teacher job application files is just part of the job.

The San Francisco native and 23-year resident of Pleasanton also maintains records of all current teachers in the two districts...if their credentials are in order, evaluation of units completed towards advancement on the salary schedule, records of substitute teachers, payroll records and processing of requests for leaves of absence and resignations.

Edna Green works with the lists of substitutes.

The personnel office secretary could well be considered the key to a firm's success. In deed, in Bev Lester's situation, she is one of the busiest personnel professionals in the valley.

Carl Krause, her boss, who is Assistant Superintendent for Personnel Services, can attest to that. And the positive, responsible traits are reflected in the smooth functioning of this key Amador-Pleasanton department.

Bev began her service with the district in September of 1953, working as secretary at Pleasanton Elementary when the late Jack Mann was principal. She returned to the district in 1958-59 as secretary to Tom Hart at Alisal School. Hart, who died last year, went on to become assistant superintendent of the district.

She resumed her affiliation with the district in 1966 as a secretary in the main office, working with the district psychologist part-time and at the Amador Valley High library the remainder.

In 1969, Mrs. Lester applied for the position of personnel department secretary when Hart was in charge of that department. She's been in personnel ever since.

A soft-spoken, trim and attractive woman, Bev has three children in local schools (Mark and Matthew in the eighth grade at Harvest Park and Mary at Amador) and Mike, an Amador grad, at Chabot College.

County staff oversight earns commission ire

Alameda County Bureau
An "oversight" on the part of the Alameda County Planning Department drew the ire of the planning commission yesterday afternoon in Hayward.

The planners were scheduled to consider approval of four elements to the county general plan—conservation, seismic safety, safety and noise—but the staff had neglected to notify anyone in the building industry of the hearings.

"You sent out 87 notices," said Commissioner Martin Kauffman to Planning Director Bill Fraley "and not a damned one to anyone who had anything to do with the building of this county."

Noting that the Audubon Society, the Sierra Club and Sally Harris, an environmentalist, had all received copies of the reports and notices of the public hearing, Kauffman commented acidly "Everyone but the madam over in Marin County got one."

"The people who have done all the work have been ignored," said the veteran builder and developer. "No one who actually does anything got a notice."

The rest of the planners echoed Kauffman's sentiments, including George Spiotopoulos. "There is no way I can prudently make a decision on this without more time," Spiotopoulos commented.

Chairman William Carpenter said "I'm satisfied that everyone involved needs more time" and the first public hearing was postponed until September 2.

The county is already late in adding these elements to the general plan, but Fraley knew of no penalty for further delay beyond the county's extension.

The staff also presented a massive report on Solid Waste Management Plans in the county through 1990.

Alameda County is estimated to be the 15th greatest garbage-producing county in the state but it appears that recycling can recover 92 per cent of the garbage in either materials or energy without too much more expense.

Other alternatives are almost equally expensive because hauling of garbage any distance becomes very costly due to fuel and manpower requirements.

The first of two special planning commission meetings will be held on the lengthy and complex report on Sept. 25 at 7:30 p.m. in Hayward. Another hearing will be held in the valley at a later date.

The report must be approved by January 1.

The request by William Webb to rezone 2½ acres from agricultural to residential was continued until Sept. 8.

Gravel pit dump plans

Amendment affects Kaiser

SACRAMENTO — An amendment proposed in the State Senate Local Government Committee Monday would prohibit Kaiser Industries from proceeding with its controversial plans to fill 775-acres of depleted gravel pits adjacent to Pleasanton with either garbage or inert construction materials.

The bill, first proposed in the State Assembly by Assemblyman (and former Pleasanton mayor) Floyd Mori, would prohibit the establishment of dump sites within two miles of a city limits without the acquiescence of that community.

That bill, however, would not have affected Kaiser's plans that firm filed its application prior to the introduction of the bill.

The amendment introduced in the Senate committee yesterday, however, would make the legislation applicable to all applications, including those that are now pending. Thus, Kaiser's plans would be affected.

The seven-member senate committee will vote on the amendment next Monday.

Kaiser's original plans were to fill the gravel pits with garbage but, because of continued opposition from the valley, Kaiser officials are planning to amend their application so that only inert construction debris would be used to fill the pits.

That proposed amendment has not placated many valley residents who are opposed to the project though. Bill Jamieson, chairman of Citizens Against a Garbage Environment (CAGE), called it a "ploy" to get "Kaiser's foot in the door."

Housing meet set

PLEASANTON — The Housing Authority will hold its regular meeting tonight at 8 p.m. at the Komandorski Village Community Building on Dougherty Road.

Executive Director John Bowling will discuss the 1973-76 proposed budget for Komandorski Village. Commissioners will then take action on the matter.

Redevelopment story

Object is to stimulate downtown economic growth

Second of a series

Pleasanton began to study the problem of economic blight in the central business district in July, 1973 after a preliminary market analysis showed up to 65 per cent of its potential retail trade is lost to surrounding suburban shopping centers.

One year later, the city council declared itself the Pleasanton Redevelopment Agency (PRA) staff, and accepted the city planning commission's preliminary redevelopment plan and outlined project area the following month.

The main objective of the redevelopment plan is to stimulate economic growth in the downtown area by improving traffic circulation, increasing parking availability, and beautifying the landscape.

Redevelopment will be limited to areas outlined in the 1439-acre project area map, which includes downtown and adjacent areas, Alameda County Fairgrounds, Pleasanton Sports Park, and the proposed Stoneridge Shopping Center at the corner of Foothill Road and I-680.

The earliest date the entire plan could be accepted by city council would be in the middle of November. Assuming the plan is adopted at that time, the property tax base would be frozen, and any amount over that level becomes revenue for the PRA in succeeding years.

John Bowling, deputy director of the PRA, said that approximately 60 per cent of the agency's revenue would come from the school district, 25 per cent from the county, and 14 per cent from pleasanton.

Due to provisions of SB 90, the state will subsidize the school district's entire contribution to the redevelopment agency.

The county could decide it wants its share of the money back and raise the entire county's assessments to cover the loss. Bowling said this would result in an increase to each individual of only a few cents, such an action was unlikely.

Property taxes from the proposed Stoneridge Shopping Center, if built, would provide the single largest contribution to redevelopment. Assessment of the shopping center will take place after the base level amount is frozen, meaning 100 per cent of the center's property taxes will go into PRA coffers excluding tax from the land assessed before the freeze.

Bowling admitted there was a chance that Stoneridge might not be constructed, but said it was "very remote." He said he expects Sears, Penneys and Capwells to be among the first inhabitants of the center.

A rough estimate cost of the entire redevelopment plans, although not completely formulated, has been set at approximately $27 million. The provisions of the plan call for the agency to be in existence for 45 years. If bonding is initiated, construction would be finished in two years and the term of the bonds would last 20 years.

Most of the construction projects have been scheduled from a master list perpetually maintained by the city for initiation when funds are appropriated, Bowling said. These projects include:

- Construction of an overpass, which eventually will be made an interchange, over I-680 at West Las Positas Blvd;
- Extension of Peters Ave. from St. John St. to Bernal Ave.;
- Completion of the Del Valle Parkway from Hopyard Road to First St.;
- Completion of the Bernal Ave. realignment to Pico Ave.;
- Extension of Railroad Ave. to Ray St.;
- Consolidation of the SP and WP railroad tracks into one line, and paving and purchase of abandoned railway property for public land uses such as parking, beautification, etc.;

• Installation of street furniture and landscaping of major commercial areas;

• Construction of landscaped peninsulas on Main St.;

• Creation and institution of special downtown design standards to promote the historic atmosphere of the downtown;

• Expansion or replacement of the city's sewage treatment plant;

• Purchase of land for future BART stations;

• Construction of a new city corporation yard;

- Acquisition of land for a new park southeast of the Stoneridge Shopping Center, and more land for the Pleasanton Sports Park;
- Expansion of the city's existing bike paths.

Bowling said that these are tentative proposals and could be added to or reduced in size as the need dictates, even after the plan is formally approved.

"These plans are not set in concrete," he said. "They can be changed at any time through action by the city council or by a majority of the people demand it."

The PRA will have the power of eminent domain if the plan is adopted. This means they can condemn any parcel of land in the project area and pay a fair market price for it, including moving costs if needed.

The city council, whose members comprise the PRA, also has eminent domain powers, as does the Dept. of Housing and Community Development, of which Bowling is director.

Although he admits that the PRA could impose strict controls on improving or modifying one's house, Bowling said that this is not likely and could see "no situation in which such controls would be exercised."

Copies of the proposed redevelopment plans and an environmental impact report on its possible consequences are available at the city offices, 200 Bernal Ave.

Fifty fit miles

Some run, some walk, some ride bikes, but Diane Pergrossi of Pasado Del Cajon, Pleasanton, swam her 50 miles. Encouraged by her husband, Jim, Diane set her goal of completing a 50 mile swim on May 14. She participated regularly in the "Swim and Stay Fit" program between 6 and 7 p.m. at the Pleasanton Aquatic Center.

On August 12 she reached her goal. Lifeguard David Pearson and Lynn Walter are seen greeting Diane on her achievement and congratulating her. Diane feels the challenge was great and it got her into "good shape more ways than one."

Dublin High School

Picnic follows scheduling

DUBLIN—The annual mill scheduling at Dublin High School Sept. 2 and 3 will be followed by a picnic and swim at the school swimming pool. Tuesday, Sept. 2 is for juniors and seniors and Wednesday, Sept. 3 for freshmen and sophomores.

Cloud seeding grant approved for valley firm

MBAssociates has been awarded a $180,000 initial contract from the United States Department of the Interior for first phase development of a scientific systems design on a federal and state cloud seeding project.

The Bureau of Reclamation handed out the 15 month contract as part of a project to augment snowfall in the Sierra Mountains, and thus enhance the water supply in California's Central Valley.

Robert Mainhardt, the President of MBA, stated that the five to seven year applied research and operational program will test the feasibility of cloud seeding on a large scale.

Students are advised to bring a swim suit, lunch, frisbee and $5 student body activities sticker in mill.

Several teachers have volunteered to sponsor intra-mural competition in softball, fleetball, volleyball, basketball, ping pong and any other sports where student interest is indicated this year.

Citizens Savings lists new hours

Citizens Savings and Loan has announced new hours in each of their 55 branches statewide effective immediately.

Pleasanton's branch, located at 300 Main St., will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, and on Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Racquet courts could spark changes

Tennis plan may get review

The Alameda County Fair Association Board of Directors is expected to evaluate its plan to build four tennis courts in the Young California Building in light of the massive private racquet club proposed last week for the former Volkswagen warehouse adjacent to Highway 580.

The latter facility, when opened Oct. 4, will have 20 indoor courts, according to developers Pietro Denevi and Anthony Martino.

The 140,000 square foot facility will be called Tennis Town. In addition to the 20 indoor courts, ten more will be constructed on the grounds outside.

When the Young California Building at the Fairgrounds was initially conceived, tennis courts were proposed as one usage for the facility.

Directors stuck with the four courts concept and, a week ago, authorized Fairgrounds manager Lee Hall to get cost estimates for installation of four courts.

The plan is to have the Fair Association run the concession for at least six months, with the Fair hiring someone to schedule the courts and collect fees.

Hall reiterated Monday the plan was to wait until after Oktoberfest to install the courts, with a possible opening in November.

The courts would be open to the public and have been considered as at least a partial solution to the growing need for tennis facilities in the valley.

According to Tennis Town manager Sharon Season, racquet club members will be assessed an initial fee of $50, plus monthly dues. Those will vary depending on family size. For instance, a single membership will cost $25 per month, or $40 per couple.

Plans also call for handball and racquetball courts, locker room and pro shop, plus whirlpool and sauna facilities.

Larry Little of San Ramon, an instructor for the Livermore Area Parks and Recreation District, will be tennis director.

The Young California Building has also been designated as the primary facility for all youth activities, exhibitions and displays.

In the next three months, the structure will host not only the Oktoberfest and Irishfest, but a major new car show and various meetings and shows of lesser note.

VMH assistant chief has long commute

LIVERMORE — Valley Memorial Hospital's new assistant administrator drove through an hour and a half of rain yesterday to his first day of work.

Larry Freeman is commuting from Tiburon until he finds a place in or near the Valley to settle his family — his wife, Carolyn, and their year-old daughter, Brandea Nicole.

But he's undismayed and says he's looking forward to the warmer climate on this side of the bay.

Before joining VMH, Freeman was director for four years of the Department of Health Facilities for the California Medical Association in San Francisco.

He administered CMA's voluntary accreditation program, which is similar to the nationwide Joint Commission accreditation program. Under both programs, hospitals pay to be inspected by a survey team which decides to grant or withhold accreditation. VMH participates in the nationwide but not the statewide program.

Born in California, Freeman was raised in Ohio. He earned his bachelor's degree in hospital administration at Georgia State University in 1968 and went on for a master's in the same field at Xavier University, Cincinnati, in 1969. The next year, he completed a year of residency as a hospital administrator in Choje Memorial Hospital, San Mateo.

He replaces Bob Tollefson and will be assuming many of Tollefson's duties as head of the Family Health Care Center in San Ramon, administrator of VMH's ancillary services such as labs, X-ray department and physical therapy.

Freeman is second in command to VMH administrator Tom Andrews. His introduction to his new job, he says, will be touring VMH's facilities, meeting people and gradually easing into the many responsibilities of his position.

The Gallery of Gunfighters...

By REINA WHITNEY

"There's only three things you have to worry about down here—the sting of the scorpion, the strike of the rattler and them San Pedro Cowboys."

That ominous warning signals the start of the famous "Fight at the O.K. Corral" as it is reenacted by The Gallery of Gunfighters. This famous duel took place in the San Pedro Valley of Tombstone, Arizona in 1881. It was most recently presented at the Amador County Fair in Plymouth, Calif. during their annual August Frontier Days.

Ever before the advent of the famed "Gold Rush Days," the West lived through some of the most tumultuous times in its history. With the opening of new territories, the vast lands of the cattle barons were the first to call forth an onrush of every conceivable breed of man to the West epitomized most notably in The Cowboy.

The raw virility, the free adventurous roaming, the survival of the fittest, the pitting of courage against weather, hunger and almost insurmountable hardships, still appeals to the imagination of most men. (Or, why else would John Wayne still be popular?)

"The Gallery of Gunfighters" is a group of 25 men who have banded together under this common interest to act out the adventurous stories that have always fascinated them.

Founded nine years ago by Tom Harmon, member of a pioneer family who still lives in the residence that his family homesteaded in Sutter Creek, it is the only group of its kind recognized by the State of California.

Although the only prerequisite for membership is Guns still smoking, the Clantons, the Claughreys and the Claybornes are brought down by the deputized Earp brothers in the famous duel at the O. K. Corral in Tombstone, Ariz. Sheriff Pat Garrett (at left), portrayed by Rob Dunn, has captured outlaw Billy the Kid, played by "Kip" Lowe, in a reenactment by The Gallery of Gunfighters theatrical group, during one of their presentations depicting the famous stories of the Old West.

portrays during another one of the presentations by this talented group.

Essentially The Gallery of Gunfighters is an active historical society and theatrical group organized to perpetuate the traditions of the Old West. The members reverently research the Old West, its people, and the famous gun fights of the 1800's.

The O. K. Corral gunfight alone has been researched for eight years, and they are still finding new details daily. They stress authenticity, not only in their scripts, which are written by the members themselves, but in their clothing and hardware.

The O. K. Corral duel was practiced 50 to 60 times for a fight that actually only lasted 30 seconds, according to historical accounts. They meticulously study eye-witness reports, and all historical data as to who was armed, who wasn't armed, who actually fired the first shot, and where and in what position the cowboy fell.

The audience is always captured by their serious air and are swept up in the gripping suspense of their acts.

Some who see the show for the first time are amazed at the costuming. They expect to see the dusty, dirty characters usually seen on the movie screen. But the cowboy, the Gallery members have learned, was really a "dandy."

According to Kip Lowe, historical data has taught them that once the cowboy came off the range, it many times meant the first bath and change of clothes in two or three months.

He spent his hard-earned money first on clothes and then the rest on saloons. His real concern was to impress the people around him, and dressed in the brightest clothes he could find. Their scarves and new hats were always outstanding.

During the O. K. Corral show, the historical Earp bothers Wyatt, Morgan, and Virgil, are portrayed dressed in dark suits with a long frock coats, vest with gold watch chain, white starched collars and string tie, beautiful felt Spanish-gaucha hats. The Clantons, and the Claybornes, the opposing rustlers that the deputized Earps tried to clean out of Tombstone, are seen fighting in long white dusters which the cowboy sometimes wore over their western outfits in an effort to keep their clothing clean "between baths."

All this costuming is the result of the meticulous research done by the Gallery of Gun Fighters. They haunt flea markets, thrift stores, attics, basements, in a constant hunt for genuine outfits of the era they dramatize. Most of the men are family men, whose wives sympathetically condone their husbands' active day-dreaming. They act primarily as wardrobe mistresses, re-doing and repairing costumes. They travel with their husbands in campers and trailers while they are in a show.

The members, quite by chance, have become historical experts in their field of cowboy lore. Some of them have acquired libraries of 40 to 50 books which they study constantly. Their "bible" according to Dave Walker, is "Triggernometry, & Gallery of Gunfighters" by Eugene Cunningham. These men try to meet at least once a month during the winter months, usually somewhere in the Gold Country. It is here where they have experienced most of their exposure. One of the members has turned a building on his property into a "saloon" which atmosphere lends itself well to their meetings.

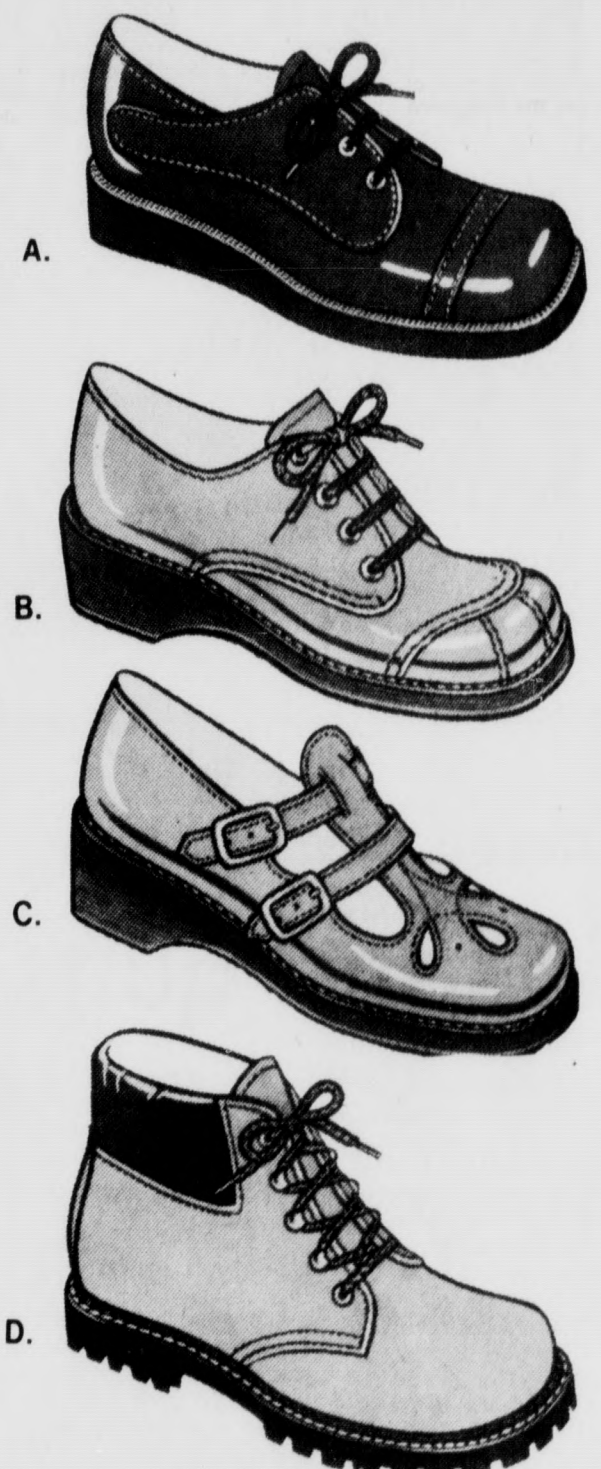

Kip Lowe acts as the group's secretary and has the responsibility of mailing out a periodic newsletter which is a compilation of contributions and stories from the members. His brother, Gary Lowe, who lives in Ione, Calif., is also a member of the group.

This year they have introduced a new skit; a tale about "Dallas" Stoudmire, a nationally famous Marshall of El Paso, Texas, who was really a tough gun-fighter. The new sketch was very well received at the Plymouth Fair, and will be repeated September 21 in Nevada City.

astrograph by Bernice Bede Ovi

For Tuesday, Aug. 19, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Though you're often more comfortable acting independently, it behooves you today to be a team player. The right associate can advance your interest.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Success may not come on the first try today. If you're persistent and hang in there, it won't elude you for too long.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Prompt action on your part today can turn a speculative situation around to where it's a benefit, rather than a liability.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
A matter you're very concerned about because it affects others as well as yourself looks like it'll work out nicely.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
You anticipate more opposition on an issue than you will actually get. Don't let your self-doubts hold you back from trying.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Stand up for your rights today where work or career is concerned. If you feel entitled to additional compensation, speak out.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Don't make a hasty negative assessment of one you'll be meeting socially. Get to know this person better. You'll have much to share.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
You may have to step-in today to protect the interests of one you feel responsible for, when you see him getting a bum shake.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
A close friend and yourself are operating on the same wave, though neither will think so at first. The gaps between your ideas aren't wide.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Your material prospects will be brightening but returns may not be immediate. However, they'll be there when needed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Plans you hope to realize in the near future will be slightly changed. The alteration will prove beneficial.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Your chances of succeeding in an important endeavor will be very promising the next couple days. Do what needs to be done quietly.

Your Birthday
Aug. 19, 1975
You will form two totally unrelated, advantageous, associations this year. One will benefit you socially; the other will be helpful careerwise.

Opening lead — 10 ♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Sometimes it doesn't pay to preempt. East was having a very good game in a match-point duplicate. Everything was going well and he decided to preempt with the East hand. It is the sort of preempt we don't recommend. He is four tricks short of his bid, but that didn't cost him this time. What did cost him was that South was allergic to preempts and made a very unsound double. After two rounds of bidding South found himself in a very bad grand-slam contract since North also hated to be shut out. South won the spade lead in dummy, entered his hand with a heart and led the queen of clubs. West's king fell to South's ace.

South thought a long time. He finally entered his hand with the second high heart, led a club, finessed against West's 10 and had taken care of the trump suit. After that it was a simple matter to finesse against the king of diamonds and wind up with his grand slam.

It was a top score to end all top scores. No one else either bid or made seven.

Ask the Jacobys

A South Dakota reader wants to know what you respond to your partner's one-spade opening when you hold:

♠ 6 2 ♥ A K 8 5 ♦ 9 3 2 ♣ A Q 7 4

In theory the hand qualified for two clubs, two hearts or two notrump, but the only correct response is two clubs. You should try to avoid responding two hearts with a four-card suit, and you should never respond two notrump with an un-stopped suit. Finally, two clubs covers your next bid. If partner rebids two diamonds, you bid notrump. If he rebids two spades you bid three hearts, etc.

(Do you have a question for the Jacobys? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and writers will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

The extra point

Gate crasher

Dave Weber

Sportswriters spoil easily. It takes a novice reporter just a few months of flashing impressive, oversized passes entitling him to the best seats at an almost limitless variety of events to become jaded and uppity.

Soon it is not enough to get paid for watching games. Petty gripes, not unlike those of a rich man complaining of the poor quality of help these days, are commonplace.

"What!" a baseball writer will roar, "third base line, indeed, I want seats behind home plate. Who do they think I write for, a junior high paper? Give me lousy seats, will they!"

Thus, from time to time, it's a good idea for jock journalists to shed the pseudo big-shot image of their trade and think back to the days when getting in for free was a big deal.

Usually, your father would luck out and get the company's public relations tickets. Or your best friend's cousin knew Orlando Cepeda's babysitter.

Or, in my case, you and Bob figured out a way to sneak in.

Bob and I were runnin' buddies at Del Valle High School and with him supplying the nerve and me supplying the plan, we managed to weasel our way into quite a few places we either couldn't pay to get in, or weren't supposed to be in anyway.

We started out innocently enough — a plot to sneak into the big football game with crosstown rival Las Lomas.

A week before the gridiron titanic we had designs on seeing sans tickets. I had accidentally turned my right hand into a mass of bone chips by slamming it upside the head of an ired freshman baseball player who was threatening to dent my skull with an ash tray.

And so was born the old "Injured Player Gambit."

Pulling on an old white practice jersey I had liberated as a memento of the Trojan soccer team, I massed with the Las Lomas players; yelling, shouting and looking for all the world like a fragile wide receiver who'd taken a good hit in practice. Bob, meanwhile, was busy scanning a clipboard; giving off the aura of a dedicated stat keeper.

When the gate swung open we swarmed in screaming, "Go Knights!"

Having established ourselves as superstars in the high school gate-crashing ranks, we entered the NBA as hardship cases.

The upcoming Golden State — Milwaukee series was sold out. But that really didn't matter.

What mattered was our combined assets of around five bucks — not enough to buy scalped play-off tickets after the game's over.

We came up with the "Typing Paper Scheme."

Press copies of the official statistics are run off every quarter in the NBA, using reams and reams of typing paper. So we planned to pose as the persons responsible for its delivery.

As I was leaving my typing class the day before game, I neglected to put back six or seven packages of paper that I had thought would be necessary for that day's assignments.

That helped. But we needed a way to make it look as though two were needed to carry the stuff in. Our solution was so slipshod and hastily thought up that no one could possibly have been fooled by it. It worked perfectly.

We picked up a pair of apple crates from the local Lucky's market, packed them with newspapers, then laid the typing paper on the top to make it look as though the entire box was crammed with it.

We arrived at the Coliseum a suitable two hours early and headed for the press entrance. The guard at the gate narrowed his eyes into slits of suspicion, then swung open the gate to let us in.

"Are those for Jim?" he asked, gesturing toward our cargo. "No," we replied in unison, "they're for Bill."

We were in — or so we thought. Behind us a man's voice called, "Can I help you with that stuff, boys?" he asked. We turned around to find a friendly fellow, who nonetheless looked like a former SS man. His badge said, "Chief of Security."

Worried that our plan was about to be foiled, we let him carry one box about 100 feet before Bob came up with an excellent ruse to get back our boxes — which still smelled of apples. "Say, uh, we need those back now," he managed. "We got a bet with a guy who said we couldn't carry that stuff in from the parking lot and if he sees you with it we'll lose."

As soon as we had them back and "the Chief" was out of sight we scurried around the building and dumped the boxes, paper and all, out a little-used door.

We managed to pull one last job before Bob disappeared in the direction of Hayward, never to be heard from again.

The scene was the fifth game of the 1973 playoffs between the World Champion Oakland A's and the Baltimore Orioles at the Coliseum.

During the playoffs we had, amazingly, bought our way in. But we weren't going to settle for just seeing the games. We wanted to get in to the winner's locker room for the champagne celebration.

Our plan worked like clockwork.

As soon as the last putout was made, we changed into plain white shirts with the little name-tag ovals usually associated with gas stations on them. Little matter that they said Ron and Kenny.

The next step was to dash breathlessly up to the guard at the door of the A's dressing quarters and bark, "Is Jerry in there?"

"Which one," he asked not wanted to seem ignorant of even the most insignificant of Charlie Finley's employees. "Jerry DeMara," Bob replied with an air of "who else?"

"Haven't seen him," the rent-a-cop asserted "Well, we gotta find him," I snapped and we dashed down the steps and into the promised land of a big league locker room.

Now I get passes. And it's hip bypassing the crowds, sitting in the press box and collecting the freebies.

But it was a hell of a lot of fun sneaking in. Somehow, you felt you had earned it.

Mike Zampa is on vacation

Reichert's par leads Open

With late starters still on the course, Palo Alto's Wynn Reichert led the first round of the Castlewood Junior Open 16-17 division with an even par 70 on the Pleasanton club's Hill course yesterday. Reichert fired 35's on both sides of the layout to lead by a stroke over Bob Blair of Santa Rosa and Chris Gutierrez of Pebble Beach. Gutierrez shot a sparkling 34 on the front nine, but faltered on the way in, losing two strokes to par. Tied for fourth through sixth in the oldest classification were Rob Rawlinson of Alameda, Kris Baxter of Los Altos and Andy Blossom of Stockton.

Pilar Dorado of Hayward jumped to the front of the girls 16-17 class with a 39-41-80 score. Marti Morris, who bested Dorado on the back nine by a stroke was second at 81.

In boys 14-15 action, Alameda's Andy Paisal led the available scorers with a five-over 75.

Dan Juchau (Pleasanton) with a 38-38-76 and Vic Esposito (San Leandro) trailed him by a stroke. James Cracolone of Milpitas stayed in the running with a 77.

Only two girls entered the 14-15 division. Juli Simpson of Santa Cruz jumped to an almost insurmountable lead over Tracy Alford of Modesto; 89-108.

Chris Berry of Alamo took a one-stroke lead in the nine-hole boys under-11 grouping with an 11-over 46. Bunched in third were brothers James and Shane Hart of Scotts Valley and David Seiber of San Francisco with 47's.

Three entrants comprised the girls under-11 division.

Judy Hoffman of Livermore topped the other pair by a whopping 17 strokes as she carded a 53.

Nancy Brown of Salinas had a 70 for second and Carlene Cassidy of Pleasanton shot an 81.

No results were available for the 12-13 classification at presstime.

The boys-16-17 division, by far the tourney's largest, will cut to 40 players for today's play.

A total of 260 linksters began the tourney, one of the largest fields ever for a two-day event in the Bay Area.

Cage coach tops
RH's Doyle, 5-4

PEBBLE BEACH — Dave Doyle of Round Hill CC, the only local upper bracket golfer to play, lost his opening round match of the Northern California Golf Association Amateur Championship yesterday 5 and 4 to University of San Francisco basketball coach Bob Gaillard.

Gaillard was one over through the 14 necessary to determine the winner while Doyle shot six over during the same span.

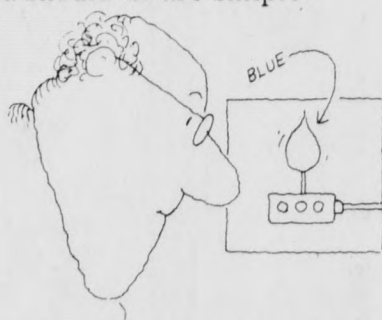

Leighton Tuttle, in the lower bracket, won via a forfeit and will face John Watson of Orinda today.

In upper division play today, Valley entrants include: Robert Fulton of Las Positas who faces Tim Grunsky of Swenson Park; Vic Wolfe of LP and Chabot College, who meets Ron Salsig of Tilden; Scott Tuttle of Diablo, who'll play Joe Findley and Don Bihl of Sunol who faces 17-year old Doug Harker.

It's time you and your gas furnace started doing things for each other.

Winter's coming. As it always does. And now is the time to check your gas furnace, so you can keep the home fires burning more efficiently.

For the most part, the things you should do are simple.

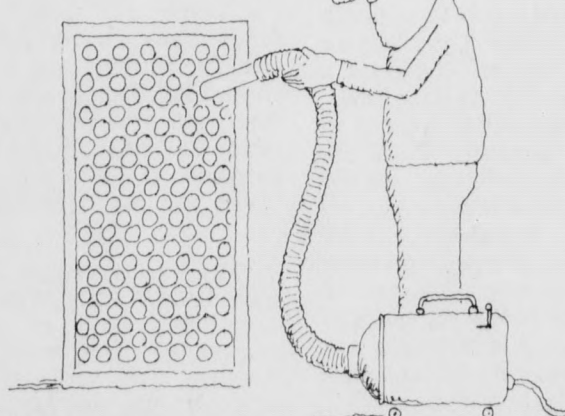

Make sure that the main burner flame is burning blue, not yellow. Otherwise, it may be using more gas, and producing less heat.

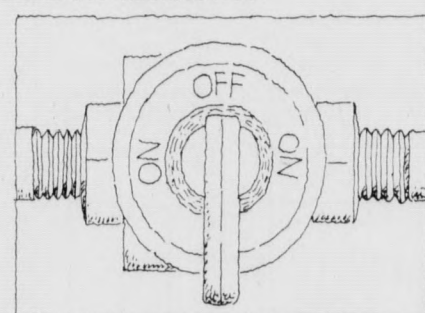

If you have a wall furnace, see that the area around the air openings and controls are free of lint and dust; if you see accumulations of what appear to be soot, you need the help of an expert.

If you have a central furnace, clean or replace the air filter now, and at least once more during the heating season. A clogged filter wastes energy and increases heating costs.

If the pilot is out, turn the thermostat to the lowest possible setting before relighting, make sure the main burner valve and the pilot valve are turned off and allow a few minutes for the gas to clear. Then check the manufacturer's lightup instructions which appear on most furnaces. Once the pilot is ignited, reset the thermostat to 68° or lower. If you're uneasy about it, call PG&E for assistance.

If your furnace needs parts or repairs, call a qualified furnace repair service. If you smell gas, call us. Never look for a gas leak with a lighted match or other flame.

For more information, ask for our booklets, "At Your Service" and "Gas and Electric Safety in Your Home," at your local PG&E office.

With just a little loving care, you and your furnace will be ready for a long, warm winter.

Intermediate, secondary education

Report calls for wide-ranging reforms

Copies of a report that, if implemented, would result in a comprehensive, systematic reform of the state's 1,600 intermediate and secondary schools have been sent to 23,000 California school board members, school administrators, teachers and educational organizations.

The report, prepared by a 37-member blue ribbon commission for the Reform of Intermediate and Secondary Education (RISE), was referred to in a discussion by Dr. Bruce Newlin, Superintendent of Amador-Pleasanton schools, and reported by The Times a week ago.

The report calls for an acceleration of change in the current operations of the state's junior and senior high schools and in the educational programs for their 1.9 million students.

Designed to improve the learning environment, to stimulate an enthusiasm for learning, to prepare all students for careers and to reduce the current vandalism, violence and dropout rates, the commission's recommendations call for:

- Recognition of the learner as the "primary client" of the school.
- Personalized or individualized instruction to meet the needs of all students.
- Demonstrated student competence in an area of study rather than "seat time" in class as the basis for awarding credit.
- Development of a system of learning options in terms of time, place, programs and formats so that students will have a wide choice of methods to achieve their learning goals.

- Extension of learning activities beyond the confines of the traditional school campus, and increased use of selected members of the community in learning activities both on and off campus.
- Mastery of essential skills—particularly reading, writing and computation.
- Credit and non-credit "furloughs" to permit students to leave and re-enter school system.
- Simplification and improvement in the current system for evaluating and dismissing educators.

• A continuous program of "planned experiences" that would place all students in contact with people whose racial, ethnic, socio-economic or cultural backgrounds are different from their own.

- Involvement of students, parents, staff and others in the decision-making process at the local level.

Copies of the new 58-page report may be obtained by sending 85 cents, plus six cents sales tax for California residents, to the Bureau of Publication Sales, California State Department of Education, P.O. Box 271, Sacramento, Calif. 95802.

Biting dog's ID is sought in Pleasanton

A Pleasanton family is looking for the owner of a German Shepherd — apparently a puppy — that bit their son Wednesday night at Walnut Grove School.

Tim Solaire, seven years old of 4862 Black Ave. in Pleasanton, was playing at Walnut Grove when another boy — whose name may be Randy — warned young Solaire to be careful of his dog.

The dog, which one child reported to be a puppy and could be named Pepper, nipped Solaire on the ankle and drew some blood.

Solaires' doctor gave him a tetanus shot but wants to find the animal involved. If "Pepper" cannot be located, young Solaire will have to go through the extremely painful and very dangerous series of rabies prevention shots.

If anyone has information about an eight year old named Randy and a German Shepherd named Pepper, the Solaire family would appreciate a call at 846-1182.

LEGAL NOTICE

with the sludge contained by 32-inch earthen berms built with imported earth. The bed floor would be compacted. Total area of the proposed project would be approximately 350 feet by 900 feet and would be located adjacent to the existing wastewater runoff collection reservoir west of 1680.

The location of the proposed beds is over clayey soils and investigation would be done to insure no sand layers lie within 3 feet of the surface. Under these conditions no groundwater degradation is anticipated, and permission to proceed has been granted by the Regional Water Quality Control Board. Minor loss of prime agricultural land would result. The beds are sufficiently large to contain the Sunol Plant's sludge through the winter months when the drying process is slowed; no runoff is anticipated. In the event of the phase out of the Sunol Plant and consolidation with the Valley Community Services District Plant, these pits would not be needed and the land would be restored to its original condition. It is the finding of the Director of Housing and Community Development that this project would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures which indicate that the environment may be harmed.

For more information on this case, contact the Department of Housing and Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, California 94566, telephone 846-3202.

Unless any written appeals of this case are received by this department within ten (10) days of the above date or publication of this notice in the Pleasanton Times, whichever is later, this decision will become effective.

Chamber meeting to focus on financing

LIVERMORE — The Chamber of Commerce board of directors will learn this morning how much money has been raised through a special plea to its members and whether it will be necessary for the chamber to dissolve.

John Strong, chamber manager and executive secretary, will report to the board the amount of money generated by a one-time assessment of all 350 members equal to 25 per cent of their dues presently paid.

"We're doing quite well," was all Strong would say yesterday. He declined to release any figures until after the board met at 8 a.m. today.

The chamber requested the extra funding from its members in a letter last month and asked that checks or commitments be made by Aug. 15.

The letter, signed by chamber president Marshall Kamena, noted that although the organization's current indebtedness was zero, projected income through December of this year fell $3,000 short of the expected minimum expenditures.

Kamena's letter warned that payment of the special assessment was needed for the chamber to survive and that the board may have to vote for dissolution if funds were lacking after the payment deadline.

In addition to the special assessment, the chamber board plans to turn traditional "break even" events into profitmaking ventures and sponsor an annual fund-raising event.

Health Care Center bid to members of public

PLEASANTON — September is the month members of the public can join the board of directors of the valley-wide Pleasanton Health Care Center.

"Only by participation in the planning and performance can you hope to meet the health needs of the valley," says Red Cross nursing coordinator Jo Jones.

The center offers free and low-cost services to the elderly and low income, including prenatal care, infant examinations and shots, venereal disease treatment, blood pressure checkups, urine checks for diabetes and social services.

The Health Care Center's board is made up of representatives from Valley organizations; interested individuals not sent from a club or organization; and consumers who use the Health Care Center.

Further information is available from the center on Railroad Avenue, Pleasanton (462-1755) or from Ms Jones (443-3910).

So, what's new?

Aug 1 brought a daughter to Daniel and Suzanne Stevens, 7093 Valley Trails Drive, Pleasanton, and sons to Denton and Linda John, 4314 Denker Drive, Pleasanton, and Robert and Kathleen Geissbuhler, 543 Colusa Way, Livermore.

Aug. 2, in Pleasanton, James and Nance Carpenter, 5527 Blackford Drive had a daughter and Edward and Jane Polson, 4090 Suffolk Way had a son.

Aug. 3 brought girls to four families: James and Joyce Harway, 8486 Beverly Lane, Dublin, John and Patricia Rabada, 803 Bonde Court, Pleasanton, Barry and Cherie Riggs, 1038 Ora Ave., Livermore, and Donald and Janis Wolkenhauer, 7161 Pike Court, Dublin.

Sign up now for kindergarten

LIVERMORE — Have a kindergartner at home?

Parents of children who will be attending Livermore schools for the first time this fall — kindergartners or upper-graders — are reminded to register their children at the school nearest their home as soon as possible.

New kindergarten pupils must be five years old by Dec. 2. Proof of birthdate is required.

State law also requires that children be immunized against polio, measles, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus before entering school unless proscribed by the parent's personal convictions. Verification of immunization will be requested at the time of registration.

Fairgrounds vandalism

Lou Alexander, maintenance superintendent at the Alameda County Fairgrounds in Pleasanton, holds a broken-off portion of drinking fountain. Alexander says that vandalism is a continuing problem on grounds, though watchmen and security personnel staff area 24 hours a day. Trespassers have sometimes caused thousands of dollars of damages, Alexander says, after stealing fair vehicles and joy riding in area or on isolation portions of grounds. (Times Photo)

Disabled vets tax exemption

SACRAMENTO — Assemblyman Floyd Mori has joined a majority of his colleagues in securing assembly passage of legislation designed to make it easier to receive the disabled veterans property tax exemption.

Assemblyman Mori, a co-author of Assembly Bill 2348, said the bill would allow disabled veterans who fail to file by the April 15 deadline to receive 80 percent of the exemption if they file by Dec. 1.

The measure is designed to cut red tape by requiring assessors to mail claim forms to homeowners who received the exemption in the 1975-76 fiscal year and thereafter.

The disabled veterans property tax exemption, authorized by the voters with approval of Proposition 8 at the November 1974 General Election, permits totally disabled veterans to exempt up to $10,000 of the assessed value of their homes from property taxation.

The legislation was previously approved unanimously by the Assembly Revenue and Taxation and Ways and Means committees. It now goes to the senate for consideration.

Harris candidate meeting tonight

LIVERMORE — A "Harris for President" campaign is getting underway in the Valley.

Former U.S. Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, a declared candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination next year, will be the topic of a meeting tonight in the Livermore Public Library (1000 South Livermore Ave.)

Livermore teacher Renee Bullard is behind a local "grassroots campaign" to put the senator into the White House. She went to hear him speaking a few months ago in Oakland and was impressed. "I felt he had liberal views and made promises that could be kept," she sums up her impression.

"He doesn't have money and would be a grassroots candidate — no one's man. It would probably be the first time in America that this could happen."

The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. and will include a 20-minute slide-and-sound show. A Bay Area campaign coordinator will be on hand to answer questions about the candidate.

Harris himself will be the featured speaker Sept. 1 at the annual Labor Day picnic of the Alameda County Central Labor Council's COPE at the county fairgrounds in Pleasanton.

Traditionally a springboard for presidential and gubernatorial campaigns, the picnic is a fund-raiser for the organization's Committee on Political Education.

Richard K. Groulx, executive secretary-treasurer of the council, said presidential hopefuls Sargent Shriver and Birch Bayh, and Edmund Brown Jr. have also been invited to speak.

Entertainment will include performances by Mike Tilles' Dixieland Band, a rock'n'roll group and a talent show featuring children of union members. Bill Burks will be master of ceremonies.

Festivities will begin at 10 a.m. and continue into the evening. Speeches are scheduled for 2 p.m.

President to visit Sept. 5

SACRAMENTO — Assemblyman Floyd Mori said he hopes President Gerald Ford's appearance Sept. 5 before a joint sitting of the California Legislature will bring news of new federal initiatives on problems affecting Californians — especially unemployment.

"It is my hope the President will take this opportunity to discuss issues of special concern to the people of California," Mori said.

The first-term legislator joined Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy in expressing the hope the President will bring some news about the future of federal revenue sharing upon which local governments depend and express a new federal commitment to the settlement of Vietnamese refugees in California.

Dean honors

The Dean's List at the University of California, Santa Barbara includes four Pleasanton students for the spring quarter.

Gary Allan Corbin, Maria Jean Frudden, George Louis Gerton, and Kenneth Charles Miller all attained grade point averages of 3.5 or better
